

PhD in Psychology

Admission

Prerequisites

Applicants are not required to have an undergraduate degree in psychology, but must have completed courses in general psychology, psychological statistics and experimental psychology. Applicants to the clinical psychology program also are required to have completed a course in history and systems of psychology with a B- or better.

Deadlines

Application for admission should be filed with the dean of the Graduate School and the psychology department by December 1 for the clinical psychology program and January 15 for the community and human factors programs, for enrollment the following fall. Students applying after the deadlines may be considered if any openings in the programs remain. Applicants are informed of admission decisions around April 1 of each year.

Materials

Applicants will be required to fill out the online Graduate School Application (<http://wichita.edu/gradapplication/>)¹, where they will be required to upload/provide the following:

- Contact information for three people to serve as references (people acquainted with the applicant's academic background and potential);
- Personal essay;
- Supplemental information (honors, scholarships, employment history, etc.);
- Professional article sample (articles, presentations, projects, etc.); and
- Scores (verbal and quantitative) on the Graduate Record Exam (GRE).

Applicants are evaluated with respect to their undergraduate grade point average; stated career goals; amount, type and scope of undergraduate preparation; reference letters and GRE scores.

Program Requirements

Required of all students. Must be completed with a B (3.000 or better).

Course	Title	Hours
Methods Courses
PSY 902	Advanced Research Methods I	4
PSY 903	Advanced Research Methods II	4
Teaching and Ethics
PSY 911	Teaching of Psychology: Principles, Practices and Ethics	3

Note: a grade of B (3.000) or better must be earned in each of the methods courses. Students may retake these courses once. Failure to meet this requirement may lead to dismissal from the program.

Second Year Project

All students must complete a predoctoral research program resulting in a document similar to a manuscript ready for journal submission. The student must enroll in PSY 901 each semester (excluding summers) until the project is completed.

Post-Second Year Project Research

After completion of the second year project requirement, all students will enroll in PSY 909 each semester until the successful completion of qualifying exams.

Community and clinical students must have completed a minimum of 10 credit hours of PSY 901 and/or PSY 909. Human factors students must complete a minimum of 18 credit hours of PSY 901 and/or PSY 909. (Note: Neither PSY 901 nor PSY 909 may be used for electives.)

Qualifying Examination

Students take a qualifying examination upon completion of all foundation and method courses and most program courses. On passing this examination, students can be admitted to doctoral candidacy.

Dissertation

All students seeking the PhD are required to complete a dissertation. The dissertation ordinarily is a major research project. A formal written proposal must be approved by the student's dissertation committee prior to beginning the project. A student must be enrolled in PSY 908 any time a student is working on his or her dissertation (including summers). A minimum of 12 credit hours of PSY 908 must be earned. In addition to regular course examinations, all students must pass an oral examination based on their dissertation.

Time Limits

Students should be aware that the Graduate School requires completion of the degree no later than 10 years after admission. The psychology department expects all degree-bound students to make satisfactory progress toward the completion of their degree program.

Applied Learning

Students in the PhD in psychology program are required to complete an applied learning or research experience to graduate from the program. The requirement for PhD students can be met by completing a dissertation (PSY 908). For students being awarded a Masters along the way to the PhD, the requirement can be met by completing a minimum of three research hours (PSY 901).
